- This tool can be used to measure the effectiveness of class, such as sewing masters.
- This tool is not for measuring an individual child, as some may attend multiple classes and others may not.
- This tool could inform if lesson plans need adaptations, depending on trend changes in the child's behavior.
- This tool would measure change per child per class. Based on the assessment of their art facilitator.
- Each class would have a summary that pulls data from each child in that class per assessment period.
- Each development criteria would have its own measure of change summary and comments.
